From the Desk of Karen McGagin, Executive Officer

Karen McGagin

Early this year, the three-member Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board took actions intended to increase the availability of mental health services to victims. These actions include increased session limits, reduced paperwork, and increased payment rates for the various licensed mental health professionals who provide services to victims. Over the last two months we have spread the word about the changes through notification to mental health providers, educational outreach efforts at professional conferences and publishing informational articles in periodicals for the various mental health licensing boards and professional associations.

The Victim Compensation Program also recently implemented a new program to pre-authorize payment for dental treatment needed as a result of a crime. Pre-authorization will make dental services more accessible to those victims who are so very much in need of such services. All of these service enhancements are discussed in more detail on page 6 of this newsletter.

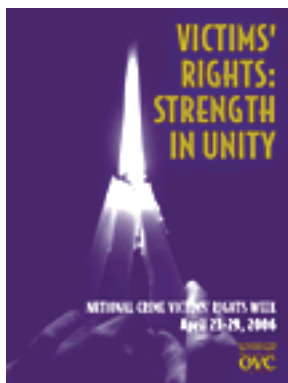

As Crime Victims' Rights Week approaches, this year's theme of "Strength in Unity," strikes me as a particularly powerful statement for the rights of victims of crime. Once again this year, victim compensation programs and victim assistance programs across the nation face the possibility of the rescission of the federal VOCA (Victims of Crime Act) fund reserves. Current projections predict that if the rescission occurs, the fund will be empty at the beginning of Federal Fiscal Year 2008. Over the last two months an unprecedented coalition of crime victims and survivors, victim service providers, victim advocacy organizations, criminal and juvenile justice professionals, and public officials at all levels have come together to save the VOCA fund.

State victim compensation agencies nationwide pay almost $500 million per year to help victims. Compensation programs have doubled in size over the last decade, and depend on VOCA for a full third of their funding. Last year California received $25 million dollars in VOCA funds to support compensation payments. VOCA is equally important in funding victim assistance programs.

I am delighted to join Californians and pay tribute to crime victims and survivors during Crime Victims' Rights Week. Also, the theme, "Victims' Rights: Strength in Unity," recognizes the ongoing efforts of victim service providers, criminal and juvenile justice professionals, and their allies who dedicate their lives to helping victims of crime. Thank you for all that you do.

Crime Victims' Rights Week Events Across California

During the week of April 23-29, 2006, crime victims and victim advocates will join together across the state to promote victims' rights and services, and to educate our communities about the devastating impact of crime on victims and their families, neighborhoods, and cities.

The theme of the 2006 National Crime Victims' Rights Week, "Victims' Rights: Strength in Unity," is being highlighted in many of the events. The VCGCB provided media kits to victim witness assistance centers throughout California to help them publicize their events.

Below are a few examples of local efforts to pay tribute to victims and survivors:

Los Angeles Honors Victims' Rights Week With Three Events

On Tuesday, April 18, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office sponsored a Victims' Rights Recognition Ceremony at the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Hearing Room. The ceremony took place at 9:30 a.m. with a brunch following at 10:30 a.m. The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors recognized the work of the Los Angeles County Victim Witness Assistance program advocates and claims specialists. The Board of Supervisors also honored the Deputy District Attorneys, advocates, and victims for their courage, compassion, and commitment.

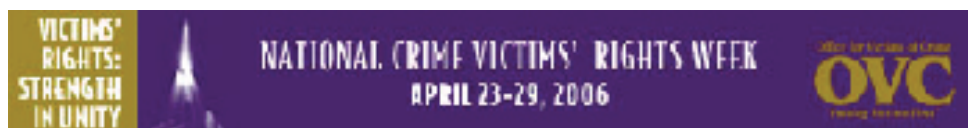

On Sunday, April 23, the Los Angeles City Attorney's Office and the Los Angeles Mayor's Office are co-sponsoring the 2nd Annual "5K Run/Walk for Victims' Rights 2006." The 1st Annual event in 2005 raised more than $40,000, all of which went to 21 community-based victim service agencies in Los Angeles. Each runner/walker will receive a t-shirt, goodie bag, finisher's medal, and raffle ticket. This year's course will be held at Exposition Park and the surrounding area. The awards ceremony and the raffle are scheduled to take place at the finish line. Live entertainment, food, and a resource fair will also be available.

Board Increases Mental Health Counseling Rates For Victims

The Board approved important changes to the reimbursement rates for mental health services at its meeting on February 16, 2006. The VCGCB took this action because mental health services are a critical resource for crime victims as they deal with the aftermath of violent crime.

An informational copy of the new reimbursement rates was

“We have held to our commitment to review existing regulations and increase reimbursement that is consistent with current professional mental health rates.”

Karen McGagin

filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to Government Code section 13957.2(a) and became effective for claims filed on or after March 1, 2006. In one year, the VCGCB will again review the effect of the new rates.

For more information, call 1-800-777-9229 or visit the Victim Compensation

Overview of the Mental Health Counseling Rate Changes

Reimbursement Rates

Mental health rates may be reimbursed per session:

- Up to $130 for Psychiatrists
- Up to $110 for Psychologists
- Up to $90 for Marriage and Family Therapists (MFT's), Licensed Clinical Social Workers (LCSW's), Psychiatric Mental Health Nurses, and Clinical Nurse Specialists
- Group therapy rates continue to be reimbursed at 40 percent of the individual therapy rates.

Effective Dates

Reimbursement rate changes are effective for bills with dates of service after March 1, 2006.

Pre-Authorized Approval Implemented To Assist Dentists In Treating Victims Of Crime-reword to advocates and public

Dentists throughout California often play a crucial role in helping crime victims recover from injuries. A crime victim may have injuries requiring oral or maxillofacial surgery to reconstruct damage caused by an assault, domestic violence, child abuse, an accident caused by a drunk driver, or another violent crime.

To assist dentists who choose to help crime victims in need of dental treatment, the VCGCB has implemented a new procedure to provide a means for dental providers to obtain preauthorized approval for treatment. Dentists may now submit a pre-treatment estimate on an approved American Dental Association (ADA) Claim Form to the VCGCB for review.

When a dentist submits a pre-treatment estimate, the VCGCB will review the document to make sure the treatment is crime-related. Should the information be insufficient to make a determination, the VCGCB may ask the treating dentist for additional data. If the treatment is approved, the provider will be notified immediately. Once the preauthorization is given, the dentist may provide the approved services and submit the bill to the VCGCB for payment.

In fiscal year 2004-05, the VCGCB approved 635 claims and paid out $830,773 to dentists for providing a variety of professional services to meet the needs of victims. The new preauthorization procedure should improve the compensation process for dentists who offer their services to victims of violent crime.

For more information, call 1-800-777-9229 or visit the Victim Compensation Program website at www.victimcompensation.ca.gov.

Updated Provider Page on VCGCB Internet

In March, the VCGCB posted a new webpage designed to give medical, mental health, dental, and funeral/burial providers accurate, up-to-date information about how to work with the Victim Compensation Program (VCP). This updated page gives providers help with becoming a VCP provider, the types of expenses that can be reimbursed, and reimbursement rates and policies, including frequently asked questions about payments. The page is also a resource for provider specific forms and publications.

To find out more about VCP payment policies, billing procedures, and rate structures, please go to the VCGCB website at <http://www.vcgcb.ca.gov/ProviderInformation.htm>.

Santa Clara County Launches A New Restitution Court

Santa Clara County is finding success in its new restitution court. Judge Edward Frederick Lee of the Santa Clara County Superior Court is holding the restitution sessions two dates per month from 9:00 a.m. to noon. On the first day of restitution court on February 17, seven out of the eight cases on the calendar were settled. During their second session on March 17, ten out of the 12 cases on the calendar were settled. After three sessions, over $127,000 has been paid and 98% of the cases have been settled.

Santa Clara County's restitution court hasn't changed the amount of work for the Criminal Restitution Compact (CRC) staff. The CRC staff investigate cases and prepare the documents necessary to collect restitution. The CRC staff must also abide by the fifteen day notice requirement and file motions for each case that goes to restitution court. Although the CRC staff still have a heavy workload, the restitution court has made their jobs easier. According to Steve Dippert of the Santa Clara County District Attorney's Office, fixing orders takes less time. "In the past, we had to file with multiple courts, in multiple locations, on multiple dates, and with multiple District Attorneys, so this is restitution heaven," said Mr. Dippert.

"In the past, we had to file with multiple courts, in multiple locations, on multiple dates, and with multiple District Attorneys, so this is restitution heaven."

Steve Dippert

The accomplishments seen by the restitution court in such a short amount of time are a tribute to the hard work of CRC staff and Judge Lee. Crime victims in Santa Clara County will have better access to restitution.

April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month

Abuse can take the form of physical, emotional, or sexual violence. Women, men, children, and the elderly can be victimized. Sexual assault crosses all boundaries of gender, race, nationality and age.

Education about family violence and increased resources for its victims is a national concern. Working together with social services, physicians, victim witness advocates, mental health providers, and prosecutors, we can bring about social change. Strong victims' rights laws make a difference, and we must also be certain that victims' needs are met.

If you would like more information, you can visit the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault web site at www.calcasa.org.
